

20260427 On the Birth of John the Baptist

Luke 1.57-66: The Birth of John.

The Birth of John.[q] 57 When the time arrived for Elizabeth to have her child she gave birth to a son. 58 Her neighbors and relatives heard that the Lord had shown his great mercy toward her, and they rejoiced with her. 59 [r]When they came on the eighth day to circumcise the child, they were going to call him Zechariah after his father, 60 but his mother said in reply, "No. He will be called John." 61 But they answered her, "There is no one among your relatives who has this name." 62 So they made signs, asking his father what he wished him to be called. 63 He asked for a tablet and wrote, "John is his name," and all were amazed. 64 Immediately his mouth was opened, his tongue freed, and he spoke blessing God. 65 Then fear came upon all their neighbors, and all these matters were discussed throughout the hill country of Judea. 66 All who heard these things took them to heart, saying, "What, then, will this child be?" For surely the hand of the Lord was with him.

1:59 The practice of Palestinian Judaism at this time was to name the child at birth; moreover, though naming a male child after the father is not completely unknown, the usual practice was to name the child after the grandfather (see Lk 1:61). The naming of the child John and Zechariah's recovery from his loss of speech should be understood as fulfilling the angel's announcement to Zechariah in Lk 1:13, 20.

"The timing was insane," he adds. "Right as I did the reveal, that's exactly the moment things went down in the room. So you see the peak reaction to my trick, the 'Oh!' And then things instantly change to shock and distress."

Within moments, he was on the ground with President Donald Trump. "Seeing his face a foot away – I'll never forget that," he says. "It's a photo in my mind forever. I wish I had meta glasses on and I'd have that photo."

"It'll be funny. It'll be entertaining. There will be some shots fired tonight in the room," Leavitt, 28, said during an interview that is gong viral on social media, likely referring to the jokes that President Donald Trump was planning to make during his first-ever WHCD speech. "Everyone should tune in, it's going to be really great." \(again.\)
